STORM DEATH LIST REACHES 200; LOSS SET AT $62,000,000

Giant Seawall Keeps Death Toll At Galveston Down To Six But Loss Is $15,000,000; Waves Sweep 20 Miles Inland

FISHING FLEET IS ANNIHILATED

Great Loss Of Life Is Occasioned Among Crews Of Ships Of All Sizes Caught At Sea By The Storm

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 19.—Storm victims now total nearly two hundred, and the list is growing. Several points where it is known there was loss of life are still unheard from.

A revised list of the dead includes the following: Dredge Sam Houston, 56; dredge San Bernard, 27; Virginia Point, 20; Texas City, 20; Surfside, 19; Galveston, 15; La Porte, 7; Houston, 4; Lynchburg, 3; Hitchcock, 3; Port Arthur, 3; San Leon, 3; Jennings Island, 3; Sour Lake, 1; Freeport, 1.

Railroad officials are assembling men and material for the construction of a wooden trestle across the Bay of Galveston. Engineers estimate that six months, and probably a year will be required to replace the damaged portions of the causeway.

It is certain that most of the deaths occurred from the foundering of small craft in Galveston harbor and vicinity. Fully two score boats, mostly dredges, tugs and fishing smacks, are missing, and their crews, totalling probably 300, are believed to have been lost. Unconfirmed rumors of entire coastal villages, some of them with populations exceeding 1,000, being wiped out tend to indicate that the storm toll may extend into the thousands, but it is generally believed that the majority of the residents of these places were saved, and that the casualties are much less than at first expected.

The property loss in most cases so far is merely a matter of speculation. Galveston, the hardest hit in this respect, is variously reported to have suffered damage ranging from $3,000,000 to $15,000,000. Most people are inclined to accept the former figure. Railroad, interurban, telegraph and telephone traffic cannot be restored to normal for weeks.

The hurricane cost the entire south $62,000,000, according to estimates based on reports from various sections of the devastated area. The loss in damage to the buildings is roughly estimated at $40,000,000, to cotton and other crops, $20,000,000, and to oil fields, $2,000,000.

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 19.—The West Indian hurricane which struck the coast late Monday and continued until yesterday morning, attaining a velocity of nearly one hundred miles an hour as its center passed between here and Houston early Tuesday morning, swept the gulf waters inland for more than twenty miles, practically wiping out several of the smaller cities along the shore.

Miles of railroad and interurban tracks have been demolished and long lines of telegraph and telephone wires are down. It will be weeks before normal conditions are restored.

Galveston was saved from a fate similar to the one it experienced in 1900, when four thousand persons perished, by its gigantic sea wall. While huge waves dashed over the wall at the height of the storm, the barrier held and only six known deaths occurred here. The craft in the harbor did not fare so well. Fully two score of small boats are expected to have been sunk with their crews.

There was in addition an enormous loss to cotton growers in the storm belt. Some estimates stated that 25 per cent of the central Texas crop was destroyed and the loss was placed at "millions of dollars." The oil fields also suffered severely and it is probable that half a million dollars will be required to replace derricks, tanks and machinery.

Every effort is being made to ascertain the loss of life in the harbor. Many miraculous escapes were recorded.

Gus Carlson, sailor on the United States dredge boat San Bernard, was rescued from the surf fifteen miles down the island Tuesday night with a life belt about him and unconscious. He had been in the water fifteen hours following the wreck of his boat. At noon yesterday he regained consciousness and said that probably twenty-seven of the complement of the San Bernard were drowned. He said the deck-boat was washed off the boat at ten o'clock Monday morning, thirty-six miles south of here.

The vessel sank immediately and

GERMANS WIN REAL BATTLE ON SEAS

BERLIN, via Wireless to Tuckerton, N. J., Aug. 19.—The sinking of a British cruiser and a destroyer, by German torpedo boats is reported in an official statement by the admiralty, whose announcement indicates a real naval battle on the west coast of Jutland Tuesday afternoon.

"At 2 p. m. on the 17th," says the statement, "five boats of one of our torpedo boat flotillas attacked a small modern British cruiser and eight torpedo boat destroyers near Hornsuff lightship on the west coast of Jutland."

"We sunk one cruiser and one destroyer with torpedoes. Our forces had no losses."

THREE LA CROSSE PEOPLE IN TEXAS STORM DISTRICT

Homes of Both Are Destroyed by Hurricane Which Sweeps the Gulf Coast

ALL WIRE LIVES ARE SAFE

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Holcomb Lose All Buildings and Crops on Big Ranch

La Crosse has more than a passing interest in the Galveston catastrophe, for three former residents of La Crosse are living in the flood-swept city or in the ruined territory adjacent. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur J. Holcomb and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Koehler and family are the local people marooned in the flooded district.

The former La Crosse people lost their homes in the storm, according to telegrams received by their people here, but all escaped without injury.

Mr. Holcomb is the son of W. W. Holcomb, local manager of the Standard Oil company, living at 909 Main street. His wife was formerly Miss Eleanor Marston, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Marston, 218 South Fourteenth street. Mrs. Koehler was Miss Ethel Holmes, former north side girl, the daughter of Mrs. E. J. Holmes, 315 Logan street. Mr. Koehler is a prominent broker of Galveston, and was married to Miss Holmes three years ago. They have one child, Robert, who is now two years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Holcomb are the owners of a large farm located three miles from Alvin, Texas, which is twenty miles southeast of Houston. Their farm is situated between the gulf coast and the city of Alvin. A telegram was received by Mrs. E. E. Marston this morning and brought to THE TRIBUNE office by Charles F. Marston, brother of Mrs. Holcomb. The message was originally sent to W. W. Holcomb and family, who are spending a vacation at Hamline Cottage, Groveland, Lake Minnetonka, Minneapolis, and later sent to Mrs. Marston at La Crosse. The message read: "Place entirely wrecked; we are safe." Giving no details beyond the mere statement of the condition. Later this morning a second report was received, which said that they had been forced to take a horse and buggy and flee for their lives. The rig was the only thing saved out of the wreck of their home.

All of Buildings Lost

The large farm was practically all under cultivation, with several large barns and a chicken farm beside a commodious bungalow. All the buildings were erected by Mr. Holcomb after taking possession of the estate about three years ago. All his buildings and crop are a total loss, including many cattle.

Mrs. E. J. Holmes, 915 Logan street, also received a telegram from her daughter this morning informing her that they were safe but that their home was a total wreck. The message said the loss of life was small but that the property loss was tremendous. They live in the city of Galveston, in the heart of the storm-swept territory. Mrs. Holmes said this morning that she expected them to arrive in La Crosse early next month.

U. S. SHIP WITH 25 LIVES LOST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The army dredge San Bernard, with twenty-five of her men, was lost in the gulf storm off Galveston, according to Colonel Rech's dispatch from Galveston to army headquarters here today. Only five of her crew were saved, he said. Two other army dredges, the San Jacinto and San Houston, are missing.

Trenton, N. J., Pair Believed on Vessel; U. S. Consul at Queenstown Confirms Sinking

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Government officials here were much concerned this afternoon at the news of the Arabic's loss.

Rumors that lives were lost especially perturbed them.

They were deeply anxious to know if there were any Americans on board and whether any of them perished.

warning, it was owned that the situation might be serious, even if nobody drowned.

The attitude of this government will be governed by the official reports from the diplomatic and consular offices in England and Ireland.

In view of the final statements made by the president in his last note the question whether an American was aboard the ship this afternoon probably was the most momentous faced by this government since the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor.

It was pointed out here that the fact that the Arabic was westward bound from Liverpool to New York would exclude from any possible controversy the contention raised by Germany in the Lusitania case that the German U boat commander's act was justified because the vessel sunk carried war munitions.

AMERICANS BELIEVED ABOARD

pedaling of the Arabic on the German-American relations. The Arabic flew the British flag. Liverpool dispatches thus far have not stated whether Captain Finch attempted to escape from the submarine when attacked. In the absence of news of either of these circumstances it was impossible to determine whether the sinking of the Arabic fell within the category of "deliberately unfriendly acts" mentioned by President Wilson in his latest note of warning to the German government.

Germans Studied Passenger List Before Steamer Sailed to Determine if Americans Were Aboard Report

U. S. GOVERNMENT STARTS PROBE

Effort to Be Made to Find if Provisions of Latest German Note Were Violated

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The White Star Arabic, carrying 435 passengers and crew and bound for New York, was torpedoed and sunk in 11 minutes off the southwest coast of Ireland, near Fasnett at 9:25 this morning.

Eleven boats were quickly launched and were later picked up by a salvage steamer and brought to Queenstown.

The first dispatches from Queenstown carried such contradictory reports that it was impossible to determine exactly how many, if any, lives were lost. It was believed here, however, that the majority at least were saved. The statement that eleven boats had been launched and their occupants rescued made it appear probable that few, if any lives, were lost. Each of the Arabic's boats, it is believed, would carry at least thirty to forty persons, enough to provide for all passengers and crew.

The statement that the lines remained afloat for eleven minutes tended to confirm this view. It was pointed out that during the fifteen minutes in which the Lusitania remained afloat after being torpedoed, 700 persons were put into the boats and rescued despite the scenes of confusion reported by survivors.

The Arabic sailed from Liverpool yesterday afternoon. She was following the usual path for trans-Atlantic liners and was about fifty or sixty miles west of the spot where the Lusitania was torpedoed off Old Kinsale Head May 7, when she was attacked by the German submarine.

The Arabic, a steel twin screw steamer of 15,801 tons, was built at Belfast in 1903. She is 600 feet long and 65.5 feet at her beam. She carried wireless and was modernly built and equipped throughout. Her master as given by Lloyd's, is W. Finch. The company explained that the Arabic carried second and third class passengers only.

The Arabic was under British registry at the port of Liverpool. Under normal conditions she could make not more than sixteen knots an hour. This would make her not difficult of attack by speedy German submarines.

The liner is the first big steamer, out-bound from Liverpool for America, to fall victim to a German submarine. The liner Orduna was chased on a westward voyage from Liverpool, but escaped.

It was pointed out that since the Arabic was outward bound, German agents had ample opportunity to determine before she sailed whether she carried any Americans on her passenger list.

It is thought possible that such an investigation was made and that orders to submarine the vessel were afterward sent to the submarine commander.

Chased Once Before

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Two sticks of dynamite were found aboard the Arabic on her trip from New York, but that she escaped. Because of her great cargo capacity, she was used largely for the transportation of war munitions to the allies and it was because of this fact that she was reported several times to have been marked for submarine attack.

Newsboys selling "Extras" on the street telling of the Arabic's sinking were literally mobbed in the downtown section by the rush to buy papers.

No crowds gathered about the White Star line offices, due presumably to the small number of passengers on board.

GERMAN ZEPPELINS IN NIGHT RAID BOMBARD THE CITY OF LONDON

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Aug. 19.—German Zeppelins Tuesday night bombarded the city of London and important establishments along the Thames river with good results, the admiralty announced this afternoon. In addition factories at Ipswich were bombarded. The airships suffered no damage despite the enemy's fire and returned in safety.

GERMANS TO KEEP POLAND AFTER WAR IS OVER

Chancellor Tells Reichstag That Territory Will Not Be Returned to Russia After Peace Is Made

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Aug. 19.—The first definite announcement from the government that Poland will not be restored to Russia when a peace treaty is signed was made by the German chancellor, Dr. Von Bethman-Hollweg, in opening the sessions of the reichstag this afternoon.

The chancellor's speech pledging a "brighter future for the Poles and an opportunity to cultivate an individual national character," was interpreted by his hearers as a promise that an independent Polish kingdom, perhaps under Austrian or German suzerainty will emerge from the war.

"Germany has strong armies at her disposal for new enterprises; proudly and without fear, we look into the future," declared the chancellor.

He retraced the events leading up to the war, declaring that Germany's enemies had misrepresented the facts, even to their own peoples. Then he turned to the situation in Poland, referring to the fresh victories of the German armies.

EMILY'S OFFER

By KEITH KENYON

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"I don't see Morton Brown around here any more, Emily. Did you have the bad judgment to turn him down?" John Forster looked very straight at his daughter as he put this question.

"Well, daddy, I turned him down only because I couldn't care for him as he wanted me to, and surely you don't think it would have been good judgment to marry somebody I didn't care for?" Emily sat with her elbows resting on the library table and her chin resting on her hands.

"I don't know what girls want nowadays, but it seems to me Morton ought to be pretty nearly full the bill for any girl, and, Emily, I know he has been hoping for you for a long time."

"Well, he oughtn't to have been too sure of me. But he'll get over it, for love is just a form of intoxication." As Emily spoke she settled herself comfortably in a large armchair.

"Intoxication, is it? Well, see here, daughter, don't you try to start a prohibition movement against it. If you think it's only intoxication, then what do you think of your mother's and mine lasting all these years?" asked John Forster, with a queer smile. His daughter had lately become a puzzle to him.

"Oh, well, temperance in all things works well, you know, and while I've no idea of starting a prohibition campaign against love for those who are seeking it or giving it, I prefer to be strictly temperate myself." Emily's father did not reply at once, but he sat with twinkling eyes regarding her.

"Never forget this, daughter, that man and woman were made for each other, and that either alone is a poor half of what they could be together. I'm going upstairs to see what's keeping your mother," he said.

Emily sat looking into the fire. She was thinking of the pale, pained face of Morton Brown when she had told him she was quite convinced that she would never marry. She also thought of the angry flash that came into his brown eyes when she told him of her intention to begin active service on the board of managers of an institution for social service work.

"Obsessed with the uplift idea, like a lot of other people who fail to see the opportunity right at hand for a complete life and a normal one." Had Morton refrained from that remark the parting would have been different.

"And you seem obsessed with the idea that you can win me according to the same formula you use in writing."

HEAL YOUR SKIN WITH RESINOL

It Stops Itching Instantly, and Clears Away Unsightly Eruptions.

If your skin itches and burns with eczema or any such tormenting, unsightly skin disease, simply wash the sore places with Resinol Soap and hot water, dry, and apply a little Resinol ointment. The itching stops INSTANTLY, you no longer have to dig and scratch, sleep becomes possible, and healing begins at once. That is because the soothing, antiseptic Resinol medication strikes right into the surface, arrests the action of the disease, and almost always restores the tortured, inflamed skin to perfect health—quickly, easily and at little cost.

Prescribed by doctors for twenty years, and sold by every druggist.

ing your advertisements," Emily darted in reply. "Do you remember telling me the steps taken in writing an advertisement?"

"Yes," said Morton, wondering why on earth she asked.

"As I remember it, you said first, to attract attention; second, create interest; third, arouse desire, and fourth, make the sale. You succeeded in the first two, but you failed in the last two simply because you neglected to take into consideration that you were not appealing to a 'prospect' who needed or wanted the particular article of which you wanted to dispose, and I remember you told me that was a vital point never to be lost sight of."

Morton vaguely remembered having talked this sort of shop talk to Emily sometimes because she seemed interested, but that she had remembered it and flung it back at him in this way amazed him almost as much as it angered him.

A few minutes after she had said it he was on his way to his apartments and she was sitting alone before the fireplace. That was two months ago, and since that time they had met only at two or three formal social affairs or when motoring, when only a nod was their greeting. During those months Emily had worked hard on her social service committees and had been less than usual in formal society. She heard that Morton had almost deserted his club and was devoting himself to business with astounding success, having landed the contract of one of the largest national advertisers in the country.

All her associations with him seemed very far away in the past, and she felt that there was little about her that was vital and worth while, in spite of all the enthusiasm with which she had begun her settlement work. Even her mother and father were beginning to leave her to herself. She did not suspect that crafty John Forster was detaining his wife up stairs for the specific purpose of allowing Emily's mind an opportunity to run in the direction he had pointed as he left the room.

The next morning Emily went down to a late breakfast and found that her mother had breakfasted with her father and accompanied him downtown. She ate her grapefruit without apparent relish and told the maid to bring her nothing but black coffee and toast. Then she picked up the morning paper and glanced over the headlines, and about to lay the paper down when she saw the name of Morton Brown under an article headed "Employer Risks Life to Save Employees."

There followed an account of a fire the evening before in the building of which Morton's advertising agency occupied the top floor. It told how Morton refused to leave the floor until he knew that every employee had been taken down the fire escape, and of his being carried out later by the firemen, who found him overcome by the smoke and the intense heat. The details failed to attach themselves to Emily's mind. All she remembered was that Morton was now in a hospital and perhaps suffering terribly.

She hurried into street clothes and started for the hospital to which the paper stated he had been taken. When she arrived she was told that visitors were not admitted at that hour, and she walked directly past the attendant into the superintendent's office and demanded to see him immediately. The superintendent, being a man who had a wife and daughters and who remembered his youth very well, put two and two together in his mind and directed a nurse to conduct Miss Forster to Mr. Brown's room.

"Dearest," she whispered, as she knelt by his bedside, "I've learned why people call love the most precious thing in the world."

"Why is it dear?"

"Because there is so much of it hidden away in hearts and so little of it in circulation. But I've found what was in my heart, and I've brought it to you. Will you take it?"

"Yes; and add to it an equal amount. With that combination, the world will be ours, whether we advertise or not."

FRANZ JOSEF 85 TODAY

Lansing, Iowa.

LANSING, Iowa, Aug. 19.—It has been many years since Allamakee County has experienced such a dearth of farm hands, it being almost impossible to get necessary help to assist in harvesting the crops. All small grains have matured at practically the same time, making it imperative to get them into the shock with all possible speed. Splendid wages are paid laborers in the harvest fields.

Land owners who had been greatly discouraged over the condition of oats and small grains, due to excessive rains, are now taking an optimistic view of the yield offered and now only need help for harvest.

Swim Hurts Boy

Edwin Reppe, one of the most popular young boys of Lansing, is experiencing bad effects from a swimming stunt the latter part of the week. With a companion he rowed to Half Way Bay, two and one half miles above town, and then proceeded to swim the distance back, later going for a dip in the cold creek waters, with the result that he has been since confined to his bed at times delirious. The attending physician attributes the trouble to over exertion and too long a time spent in water.

Personals

A merry company of gentlemen hied to the islands above Lansing Sunday afternoon and partook of the delights of a regulation picnic spread. Card tables, liquid refreshments and all the paraphernalia of a picnic nature were taken along to lend to the pleasure of the affair.

Sunday, the city fairly teemed with automobiles, motorists from many different parts of the country being numbered. Cars from St. Paul, Fountain, Preston and Harmony Minn., were noted, also Cresco, Decorah, New Albin and Postville near home were represented.

Lloyd Olson has been afflicted of late with enlarged glands of the throat, and it was thought that an operation would be necessary, but his condition was much improved Sunday.

Petty thefts of different kinds, such as fruit from trees, garden vegetables, etc., have been quite generally perpetrated of late, but the most daring of anything in purloining yet noted is the taking of several dozen pint jars from the McGarrey home in the Wagner flat, during Mrs. McGarrey's absence, with friends at Wexford. The missing articles were not noted until after the jars had been used for canning purposes, and it was then discovered that nearly every pint sealer in the place had disappeared.

Miss Verna Bensch returned Tuesday from a several days sojourn with Mable, Minn., friends.

Martin Tully is driving around in the niftiest basket runabout and single horse that has been seen on the streets of Lansing for a long time. The vehicle was purchased in Chicago, and the horse is one formerly owned by James Manning of the City Livestock.

Mrs. B. H. Wellendorf is again in Lansing after a visit with her relatives.

The city in general is eagerly looking forward to the proposed excursion from La Crosse to this point Saturday. The freedom of the municipality will be generously dispensed to the visitors during the hours of their stay.

The fish car used by Game Warden Albert pulled out for northern points Monday morning. Ralph Thorsten, who has charge of the commissary department accompanied the car on the trip.

Mr. Hanley who spent the week end with relatives at Dubuque and Cogan, returned Monday afternoon. Mrs. B. H. Wellendorf and two children are sojourning for a time with relatives at Galena, Ill.

The Fred Spinner home has as guests the Misses Mickelson of Grand Rapids, Wis.

Edward Julson is again able to be about the streets after an enforced confinement due to a badly sprained ankle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson are again at home after an extended western tour.

Professor Vorhies and wife are in the city after a summer's vacation spent at the parental home of the former Shannon City.

Miss Margretta Guider has returned from a fortnight's stay with North Dakota friends.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Why the Little Doggie Chased His Tail.

"THERE was a little doggie that chased his tail," said daddy. "And I suppose he would be doing it yet, only, you see, my dears, he grew older and wiser."

"Why, daddy," cried Evelyn, laughing, "that sounds funny."

"I hope so," smiled daddy. "Maybe it will be useful, too, though that doesn't matter. Kiddies like to be entertained."

"Well, let's see about this pup dog of ours. He was a very little pup with a name much bigger than himself. His name was Theophilus."

"Little Theophilus was fuzzy and fat and black and white, and he had dark eyes that shone with love of everybody and everything and the cutest bark and a yelp that was as joyful a yelp, I think, as was ever yelped, but he hardly knew how to express himself."

"But he found a way. It was on a lovely summer morning, with the trees all green and the sky all blue and the bees buzzing and all that, and Theophilus looked at those bees, and he had to laugh. They seemed so serious. They had so much work to do. But to Theophilus life was all play."

"So he barked and barked and barked, and he ran up and down the lawn in front of the house, and he did everything he could think of, and then he sat down and thought funny little thoughts of what he could do next."

"And he looked down and saw his funny little wiggly, waggly tail lying on the lawn beside him. Ah, there was something he could do! He could chase his tail."

"So he jumped up, and he chased his funny tail round and round and round. But, do the best he could, he could not catch up with it."

"And along came Geoffrey, the great big St. Bernard next door. Geoffrey was very old. His eyes were dim, and he was stiff and rheumy. But anybody could tell by looking at him that he had been a good dog once."

"Why do you chase your tail?" asked the old dog, smiling sadly.

"And do you know, kiddies, for the life of him that pup dog couldn't tell the old dog why he chased his tail."

"But the old dog looked wise and nodded and said: 'I know why you chase your tail. You think you will catch up with it some day, but you never will.'"

"The little pup dog looked rather worried at that, but the old dog said encouragingly: 'Don't you worry, son. You just keep on trying to catch it. You see, you're young and you need the exercise. Why, do you know, once I used to chase my tail too!'"

"And the big dog walked away, all stiff and rheumy, and the pup dog looked after him as if he didn't believe what he said. But it was true."

ANTI-VACCINATION
ARGUMENT FAILS

One of the favorite claims of anti-vaccinationists seems effectually disposed of by the investigations of Dr. John F. Anderson. He inquired particularly into the charge that vaccination is largely responsible for tetanus cases. He proved that it is not by two exhaustive inquiries.

First, Dr. Anderson took samples of all available supplies of vaccine virus, over a period of thirteen years, and subjected them to a careful examination to see whether they contained tetanus germs. The specimens he examined were enough, altogether, to vaccinate 2,000,000 persons. In not one of them did he detect any of the disease germs.

Second, he looked into all reported cases of tetanus following vaccination for the smallpox, 1913. There proved to be in all 41 authentic cases. During that same period the total number of persons vaccinated in the United States was 31,000,000. That is to say, only a little more than one person in a million was a victim of tetanus after being vaccinated. Dr. Anderson concludes that in these few cases, it is reasonable to assume that the deadly germs were due not to the virus used, but to subsequent infection due to improper care of the vaccination wound. For if the tetanus infection were due to the virus, there would have been a far greater number of widespread use of that same virus.

That conclusion is strengthened by his observation that there was not a single case of tetanus in the United States army, out of far more than half a million vaccination cases. The soldiers were safe because their vaccination sores were properly cared for.

It seems to follow that vaccination is perfectly safe—if only the doctor's instructions are followed in keeping the wound clean.

CYCLES OF DRESSES

"Anybody who doubts that dress-making is on a par with the other arts need only visit the Metropolitan Museum of Art to have his artistic ideals straightened out," says a New York exchange. "He will find there just as good facilities for studying women's styles in dress as for studying the Flemish and Italian schools of painting, or the sculpture of ancient Greece."

There is an elaborate exhibition of dolls togged out in all the shifting fashions of the centuries. The dolls, like the sex they represent, are pretty much the same in size and shape, but the varied effects resulting from the changing lines and texture of their garments are as startling as any observed in real life. The clothes make the doll, as they often do the woman.

The writer relates that the models are patterned after paintings of old masters and tapestries and standard authorities on costume and are intended as a sort of artistic laboratory for the use of designers. And they prove the truth of the ancient lament that there's nothing new under the sun, at least where women's dress is concerned, for these dolls tricked out in their historic finery showed with surprising clearness how styles move in cycles. The designers may occasionally arrive at some new combination of lines or fabrics, but in general the "new creations" that dawn on mankind with the revolving seasons are merely revived modes of the past, or of several pasts, borrowed from art galleries and old books.

NEUTRAL

We hear many definitions of neutrality. Out in Minnesota, at a junction where traveling men must stop to connect with a certain railroad feeder, the only hotel has been run upon a slovenly plan and was in need of repair. Recently it changed landlords, and the new proprietor began painting and papering.

"What kind of a hotel you going to run?" inquired an interested patron, and upon receiving the information that said landlord was about to run a "first class hotel," he persisted:

"I mean, are you going to run an American or a European hotel?"

"Val," deliberated the proprietor, "I tank I bane make him neutral."

If the landlord succeeds his will be the only neutral hotel in the United States.

LADY, WILL YOU GO

It's no stag—that Lansing excursion, Saturday. The Board of Trade wants it distinctly understood that it is to be for men and women both—and whole families. That trip on a splendid steamboat, with the delightful scenery by the way and the romantic little city of Lansing for its Mecca—a voyage like that without the women would be like spring lamb without mint, sea without waves, spring without flowers.

Let's make it a regular party with outers' freedom, everybody a cut-up, with the Father of waters for chaperon.

"Whys" of Moves
in European WarBy J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Pan-Germanism is demanding the annexation of Belgium as the principal price Germany must exact from her enemies to pay for the cost of the war. The movement to force the Belgians into the German empire has been concealed beneath the surface until the present moment. Its sudden appearance in the open is due to the Teutonic victories in Russia, which are causing many Germans to believe they can dictate the terms of peace which will end the war.

The German government, itself, is for the moment giving no encouragement to the Belgian annexationists. Anti-Annexationists, among whom are Dr. Bernhard Dernberg, have signed a petition to the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, urging the danger to Germany of trying to absorb alien and reluctant nationalities. That a counter petition to the government has been made necessary shows how extensive the demand for permanently seizing Belgium has become. Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg is believed personally to favor the restoration of independence to Belgium, but the prestige of the chancellor is not sufficient to cause his influence to be felt extensively. It is probable, too, that political opponents of Von Bethmann-Hollweg are trying to embarrass him by urging Belgium's annexation.

The popular demand that Belgium shall be made a conquered province, does not take into consideration the protection hat is offered to Belgium's sovereignty by the British blockade of Germany and the seizure of Germany's colonies. Even though it may turn out to be impossible to drive the German armies out of Belgium by a land campaign, nevertheless, there seems to be no possibility that the Germans can regain their colonies or cause England to lift her blockade unless Belgium is voluntarily evacuated.

One He Knew

Undoubtedly it was a Republican, and a rabid Republican at that, who put this story into circulation. He said a lover of the works and the memory of Samuel L. Clemens went to the town of Hannibal, Missouri, where Mr. Clemens spent his boyhood, and hunted up the oldest inhabitant.

"Do you remember Mark Twain—Samuel L. Clemens—who once lived in this town?" asked the visitor.

The aged Hannibalite shook his head.

"Never heard tell of him," he said.

"Well, didn't you know the original of Tom Sawyer?"

"Nope, never heard tell of that fellow, neither."

"Maybe you knew Huck Finn?"

"Nope."

"Well, how about Puddin'-head Wilson—ever heard of him?"

"Hell, yes; I voted for him in 1912!"

"What is your business?" asked the medical man.

"I'm a baseball umpire."

"In that case," said the doctor, "you have no cause for worry whatever. You can see plenty good enough for the umpiring they're doing the big leagues nowadays."

"Johnnie!"

"Yes'm."

"Why are you sitting on that boy's face?"

"Why, I—"

"Did I not tell you to always count a hundred before you gave way to passion and struck another boy?"

"Yes'm, and I'm doing it. I'm just sittin' on his face so he'll be here when I'm done countin' the hundred."—Houston Post.

Some Problem

A San Joaquin Valley editor, who was asked by his son to help him with some of the problems assigned as night work, says he can't see how the boy is going to learn anything when his teacher sends him home with problems like the following:—"If it takes a four-months-old woodpecker with a rubber bill nine months and thirteen days to peck a hole through a cypress log that is big enough to make 117 shingles, and it takes 165 shingles to make a bundle worth 93 cents, how long will it take a cross-eyed grasshopper with a cork leg to kick all the seeds out of a dill pickle?"—Los Angeles Express.

In Ol' Lannon

Jenkins had ceased to complain, but one evening his troubles as a strap hanger in the train got so bad that he felt bound to expostulate.

"Excuse me, sir," he said to the man sitting by him, "but would you mind moving your portmanteau from the gangway? I really can hardly find room to stand."

"Move my portmanteau?" gasped the stranger. "Those, sir, are my feet!"

"Is that so?" said Jenkins. "Then, perhaps you would pile them one above the other."—Ginger.

Left Unsaid

"Who was that lady I saw you with last night?" asked the interlocutor at the amateur minstrel show.

"That wasn't no lady," replied the end man. "That was my—my—that was my—my—"

"Wife! Wife!" whispered the prompter hoarsely.

"O, I know the answer all right," the end man whispered back, "but do you see it, she's sitting right down there in the front row!"

"You, Minot—" pleaded Harrowby. "You have understood—"

"I have told that you were sincerely fond of Miss Meyrick," Minot replied. "Otherwise I should not have done—what I have done."

"Then, Mr. Minot," the girl inquired, "you think I would be wrong to give up all plans for the wedding?"

"I—I—yes, I do," writhed Minot.

"And you advise me to marry Lord Harrowby at once?"

Md. Minot passed his handkerchief over his damp forehead. Had the girl no mercy?

"I do," he answered miserably. Cynthia Meyrick laughed, harshly, mirthlessly.

"Because that's your business—your mean little business," she said scornfully. "I know at last why you came to San Marco. I understand everything. You had gambled with Lord Harrowby, and you came here to see that you did not lose your money. Well, you've lost! Carry that news back to the concern you work for! In spite of your heroic efforts, you've lost! At the last moment Cynthia Meyrick changed her mind!"

Lost! The word cut Minot to the quick. Lost, indeed! Lost Jephson's stake—lost the girl he loved! He had failed Jephson—failed himself! After all he had done—all he had sacrificed. A double defeat, and therefore doubly bitter.

"Cynthia—surely you don't mean—" Lord Harrowby was pleading.

"I do, Allan," said the girl more gently. "It was true—what I told you—there by the window. It is better—father! Will you go down and say—I'm not to be married, after all!"

Spencer Meyrick nodded, and turned toward the door.

"Cynthia," cried Harrowby brokenly. There was no reply. Old Meyrick went out.

"I'm sorry," his lordship said. "Sorry I made such a mess of it—the more so because I love you, Cynthia—and always shall. Good-by."

He held out his hand. She put hers in it.

"It's too bad, Allan," she said. "But—it wasn't to be. And, even now, you have one consolation—the money that Lloyds must pay you."

"The money means nothing, Cynthia—"

"Miss Meyrick is mistaken," Minot interrupted. "Lord Harrowby has not even that consolation. Lloyds owes him nothing."

"Why not?" asked the girl defiantly.

"Up to an hour ago," said Minot, "you were determined to marry his lordship?"

"I should hardly put it that way. But—I intended to."

"Yes. Then you changed your mind. Why?"

"I changed it because I found out about this ridiculous, this insulting policy."

"Then his lordship's taking out of the policy causing the calling off of the wedding?"

"Y—yes. Why?"

"It may interest you to know—and it may interest Lord Harrowby to recall—that five minutes before he took out this policy he signed an agreement to do everything in his power to bring about the wedding. And he further promised that if the wedding should be called off because of any subsequent act of his, he would forfeit the premium."

"By gad," said Lord Harrowby. "The taking out of the policy was a subsequent act," continued Minot. "The premium, I fancy, is forfeited."

"He's got you, Allan," said George Harrowby, coming forward, "and I for one can't say I'm sorry. You're going to tear up that policy now—and go to work for me."

"I for one am sorry," cried Miss Meyrick, her flashing eyes on Minot. "I wanted you to win, Allan. I wanted you to win."

"Why?" Minot asked innocently.

"You ought to know," she answered, and turned away.

Lord Harrowby moved toward the door.

"We're not hard losers," he said blankly. "But—everything's gone—it's a bit of a smashup. Good-by, Cynthia."

"Good-by, Allan—and good luck."

"Thanks." And Harrowby went out with his brother.

Minot stood for a time, not daring to move. Cynthia Meyrick was at the window; her scornful back was not encouraging. Finally she turned, saw Minot and gave a start of surprise.

"Oh—you're still here?"

"Cynthia, now you understand," he said. "You know why I acted as I did. You realize my position. I was in a horrible fix—"

She looked at him coldly.

"Yes," she said. "I do understand. You were gambling on me. You came down here to defend your employer's cash. Well, you have succeeded. Is there anything more to be said?"

"Isn't there? On the ramparts of the old fort the other night—"

"Please do not make yourself any more ridiculous than is necessary. You have put your employer's money above my happiness. Always. Really, you looked rather cheap today, with your sanctimonious advice that I marry Harrowby. Aren't you beginning to realize your own position—the silly childish figure you cut?"

"Then you—"

"Last night when you came staggering across the lawn to me with this foolish gown in your arms—I told you I hated you. Do you imagine I hate you any less now. Well, I don't." Her voice became tearful.

"I hate you! I hate you!"

"But some day—"

She turned away from him, for she was sobbing outright now.

"I never want to see you again as long as I live," she cried. "Never! Never! Never!"

Limp, pitiable, worn by the long fight he had waged, Minot stood staring helplessly at her heaving shoulders.

"Then—I can only say I'm sorry," he murmured. "And—good-by."

He waited. She did not turn toward him. He stumbled out of the room.

CHAPTER XXII.
"Well, Hardly Ever—"

Minot went below and sent two messages, one to Jephson, the other to Thacker. The lobby of the De la Pax was thronged with brilliantly attired wedding guests who, metaphorically, beat their breasts in perplexity over the tidings that had come even as they craned their necks to catch the first glimpse of that distinguished bridal party. The lavishly decorated parlor that was to have been the scene of the ceremony stood tragically deserted. Minot cast one look at it, and hurried again to his own particular cell.

He took a couple of time-tables from his desk, and sat down in a chair facing the window. All over now. Nothing to do but return to the North, as fast as the train would take him. He had won, but he had also lost. He felt listless, weary. He let the time-tables fall to the floor, and sat gazing out at that parrow street—thinking—wondering—wishing—

The Difference

There are two ways of doing business, just the same as there are two ways of stroking a cat's fur. Here's an illustration, for instance:—Post-edon the inside of the door of a St. Paul store, where a friendly and capacious doorway invitingly suggests shelter in bad weather for people waiting for a car, is a sign which reads, "Please don't stand in the doorway." Only a few doors away, at another corner, is another store, where the sign reads, "Come in and wait for your car."—Cigar and Tobacco Journal.

AUTOBUS LINE MAY
RUN TO THE CITYDriver of Galesville-Winona Machine Tells Council He May Shift if Tolls Are Not Reduced

Upon the decision of the Winona common council relative to concessions asked by Frank Atwood, who operates an autobus line between Winona and Gales, depends whether he will continue the present route or transfer it to the run between La Crosse and Holmen. Atwood told the council he had been approached with the request to make the transfer.

Mr. Atwood appeared before the council Monday with a request for a bridge toll concession, suggesting that a flat monthly rate of ten dollars would be fair in view of the increased business his bus line brought to Winona. His present toll charges are fifty cents a day and five cents for every passenger carried.

On the run between La Crosse and Holmen, there would be no toll charges, and good macadam roads connect the terminals of the route, he said. The matter of granting the concessions asked by Atwood was taken under advisement by the aldermen.

FISH IN BROADWAY

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Aug. 19.—As a mute protest against what they considered inadequate drainage of East Broadway, business men declared a "day off," and "went fishin'" in front their places of business. When the city council failed to take any action to rid the street of its surplus water the business men got several small fishes, threw them into the pools along the street and then baited up their lines, and grimly waited for bites. The council met in special session and decided upon drainage for the street.

There is nothing so sad as the stunts of a fat woman who tries to act kittenish.

The world is also going nuts about chautauqua.

"I've been smoking too much!"

It's doubtful if you ever heard a Fatima smoker say that.

Of course, you can't tell until you try them whether Fatimas will taste as good to you as they do to most men.

But one thing you can be sure of—Fatimas will never give you any mean "after-feeling."

The pure Fatima blend is famous for being cool and friendly to the throat and tongue. Fatimas are the most SENSIBLE cigarette you can smoke. Today's the day you should try them.

BOSSHARD BILL MAY END LONG M'GILVAY FIGHT

Attorney Cowie Points Out Law Which Automatically Adjusts Differences in Building Bridge

That the recently enacted boundary bridge bill, fathered by Senator Otto Bosshard of La Crosse will end the age-long fight over the McGilvay road and bridge between La Crosse and Trempealeau counties, is the opinion of Attorney R. S. Cowie of Whitehall, counsel for Trempealeau farmers who reside in the vicinity of the road.

Bosshard's bill provides that all bridges across navigable streams, which constitute boundary lines between counties shall be built and maintained, including all necessary approaches, by the two counties jointly.

Cowie suggests that a special joint meeting of the county board of Trempealeau and La Crosse be held for the purpose of appropriating sums for the work, said by some here to cost about $25,000. Cowie may appear before the meeting of the La Crosse county board next Tuesday.

BADGER EXHIBITS AT FAIR SHOW STATE RESOURCES

University Has Progress Charts for Visitors at Expo During Wisconsin Week

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 19.—The work of the University of Wisconsin in forwarding the development of the state was shown to great crowds at the San Francisco exposition who visited the Wisconsin exhibits during "Wisconsin Week" last week. Of special interest in the state's exhibit were a series of illustrated charts setting forth many of its resources displayed in one of the buildings most visited by exposition guests.

Here are a few of the interesting points about the Badger state which are set forth in the display:

Wisconsin's agricultural system is founded upon diversified cropping and live stock farming.

Wisconsin is a live stock state. Live stock farming enhances soil fertility, the basis of permanent agriculture.

Wisconsin has more dairy cows than any other state in the Union. One-half of all the cheese factories in the United States are located in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin is the leading pure bred seed state of the Union.

Wisconsin pedigree barley and rye have never been beaten for world championship honors in seven national grain shows.

Wisconsin pedigree grains have out-yielded ordinary sorts from five to ten bushels per acre in hundreds of state wide tests by farmers themselves.

Wisconsin ranks first in the production of rye, second in the production of potatoes and fourth in the production of hay.

Alfalfa, our best hay crop, excels in yields, drought resistance, soil enrichment and feeding value.

Wisconsin has more silos than any other state in the Union.

Over 40 per cent of Wisconsin's corn crop is harvested for silage.

Wisconsin produces 43 per cent of the canned pea supply of the United States.

Wisconsin farms are valuable because over 85 per cent are operated by the owners. It is not a renting state.

Upper Wisconsin offers excellent opportunities to the home-seeker. Thousands of acres of cheap fertile lands are now being cleared and rapidly developed into productive farms.

With Duluth and Superior to the north, St. Paul and Minneapolis to the west, Lake Michigan on the east with its numerous shore cities and abundant lake traffic and Chicago to the south—the Wisconsin farmer is surrounded with most ideal markets for his products.

COMISKEY WAS GAY COLLEGE YOUTH AT PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

Veteran's Birthday Reminds Old Timers of His Back Lot Antics while Attending Christian Brothers

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The "old-timers," the "has-beens" and the "once-were" of Prairie du Chien, otherwise known as Charles A. Comiskey, the gray-haired master of the Chicago White Sox took hearts while they mowed their lawns last Sunday—providing they do mow their lawns on Sunday—and remembered when Comiskey used to throw his "puzzler," the slow ball, while attending Christian Brothers' college here, now known as Campion college.

Comiskey was fifty-seven years old, he calls it "young" on that day, and their thinking machines slipped back over the years when the Old Roman hit 'em all over the back lot. Comiskey can trace a goodly portion of his success to his college days in Prairie du Chien.

Comiskey was born Aug. 15, 1855, in Chicago, his father coming to this country from Ireland. From the time he was able to toddle, the veteran played ball on every empty lot he could find.

WAR ODDITIES

LONDON—Out of sympathy for newspapermen who are stationed at the London Press Bureau long hours waiting for something to happen, Rudyard Kipling presented a complete set of his works for them to read.

LONDON—The British Postmaster General has proposed to abolish post-office telegram messenger boys and give the work to ex-soldiers.

LONDON—Inhabitants of Affrington, Sussex, English east coast frequently report plainly hearing of the boom of big guns in the region of Arras, France, across the channel.

PRIMITIVE NEBRASKANS

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 19.—Scientists from Harvard university are investigating ruins of the homes of a primitive people who lived in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri, along the Missouri river before the advent of the red man to the middle western plains. The Harvard party, under Dr. Fred H. Sterns, has recently been working in the vicinity of Nebraska and the Village of Rock Bluffs.

J. W. Pickering.

When J. W. Pickering of Boston, Mass., arrived at the Business Men's Military Training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., he had the time of his life being mustered in the outfit. Because of his age, which is sixty-three, he was turned down three times. He was finally accepted when a physical examination proved him to be more fit as a soldier than many of the younger men. Mr. Pickering is a vegetarian.

MAJESTIC WILL SHOW BOAT RACES

It is announced by Manager F. P. Koppelberger that he has been successful in securing an unusually interesting special attraction for Majestic patrons in the form of special motion pictures of the recent annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association at Hannibal, Mo.

The boat racing pictures will be shown at the Majestic matinee and night on Friday this week, and should prove of genuine interest to the large number of motor boat fans in La Crosse, as well as to citizens generally, for a big boat race is an exciting thing and offers many thrills which are faithfully reproduced on the screen.

The Hannibal regatta attracted some of the greatest boats in the country, including the Buffalo Enquirer and the Buffalo Courier. These boats are both capable of speeds of better than fifty miles an hour and both of them will race in the gold cup race for the American championship at Manhasset Bay, N. Y., Aug. 14 to 18. Some of the most famous race boat drivers in America will be seen driving these two boats, including Jay Smith and Jack Beebe, who drove the famous Baby Reliance, and William J. Conners, Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., son of the well known millionaire politician, who owns the speeders.

VETERANS CARY COX TO GRAVE

Former Assemblyman and Supervisor Buried Today with Full Military Honors of G. A. R.

Sorrowing friends this afternoon bore to their last resting place the remains of the late Supervisor Lemuel B. Cox, whose long and useful life was ended Monday afternoon after a week's illness. Funeral services were held from the residence at 6 o'clock and from the Onalaska Methodist church at 2:30.

Rev. A. S. Gilbert of the Onalaska Methodist church and the Rev. C. C. Rowland of the First Congregational church of La Crosse, officiated at the services at the home, while the Wilson-Colwell Post of La Crosse and the Picket Post of Onalaska, had charge of the services at the cemetery. Full military honors were accorded the veteran.

Veterans of the Wilson-Colwell post and the Picket Post attended the last rites in a body, as did the county board of supervisors, in which body Mr. Cox was the representative of Onalaska.

The body lay in state at the residence until two o'clock. The pall bearers were John Mahoney, H. T. Richmond, E. T. Walcott, I. E. Green, H. J. Beckwith and John Hulberg.

MOVIES SUPPLANT SERMONS

NEW LENOX, Ill., Aug. 19.—Methodist ministers of the Joliet district meeting here today had for one topic of discussion the use of moving pictures as a regular part of church program. Rev. James O'May, of Aurora, who has successfully used movies as a substitute for sermons at times, explained the plan's merits.

He Doesn't Miss Apples But Fido Lost Much Sleep

If the person who left a pen-knife and a pencil beneath an apple tree in the yard of John Math, 1718 Kane street, will call at Math's home, he will get his property back. Mr. Math telephoned the TRIBUNE today. Mr. Math found the articles beneath his tree yesterday morning, and also found most of his apples gone, he said. "But the main trouble," he declared to a reporter, "was that they kept the dog awake all night."

ITALIANS SCALE MOUNTAIN PEAK TO TAKE BATTERY

Alpinists Creep Across the Glaciers at Midnight and Surprise Sleeping Austrian foe

ROME, Aug. 19.—Creeping single file across two great glaciers at midnight, a small detachment of daring Alpinists scaled the snow-topped peak of Tucketspitze and surprised and captured an Austrian battery mounted on the summit.

The official statement, detailing this operation given out early today also reports a successful attack on two of the principal positions defending the Austrian fortress of Tolmino on the Isonzo.

EASTLAND OWNERS AGAIN WOULD LET DEATH SHIP SINK

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—"If the court does not limit the liability of the owners of the death ship Eastland, they will let her sink." This was the threat made yesterday afternoon by C. E. Kremer, attorney, representing the Chicago-St. Joseph line. Attorney Kremer today asked that a trustee be appointed to take charge of the ship. He said it will cost considerable to keep her pumped out and that the company does not feel it should do this. Judge Landis ordered the owners to "keep pumping her out another day or two," while he considered the petition.

Officials today, after another search of the river bed by divers said they believed the death list would not go far above 843, which is the total number of bodies recovered to date.

TWO BILLION WAR CREDIT TO BE REICHSTAG VOTE

Socialists Expected to Concur Measure; Spectacular Session Anticipated; Parties to Harmonize

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, via The Hague, Aug. 19.—Despite the activities of Dr. Carl Liebknecht, radical socialist leader, the majority of the socialists in the reichstag are prepared to vote a war credit of $2,000,000,000 when the reichstag convenes tomorrow.

Liebknecht who already has announced that he will ask the government on what terms Germany would agree to an immediate peace, probably will vote "No" on the proposal to grant further credits for war purposes. A few other socialists may leave the hall as a silent protest, but the majority of the socialist members, following a three day conference, have announced their determination to support the government.

As a spectacle the first session of the reichstag tomorrow afternoon will rival the famous meeting of a year ago when the first credits for the prosecution of the war were voted amid unparalleled scenes. American Ambassador Gerard and other members of the diplomatic corps are planning to attend.

It is reported that the coming session will uncover several party splits, principally in the ranks of the national liberals and the socialists. The socialist labor leaders, for instance, will insist that action be taken against alleged food speculators. They also are prepared to oppose certain new orders respecting the German landsurm.

New Post Toasties

resulting from years of practice and study, are the inner sweet meats of choicest Indian Corn skillfully toasted to a crackly, golden-brown crispness.

By a new process the true corn flavour, unknown to corn flakes of the past, is brought out in every flake.

As you pour Toasties from the package, note the little pearly "puffs" on the flakes—a distinguishing characteristic of these New Toasties. Another point—they don't mush down when cream or milk is added.

Insist upon these distinctive corn flakes—the New Post Toasties—

BUNGALOW IS HAUNTED

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 19.—
Haunted houses may be all right in novels, but when they pop up in real life they are apt to be a bit of a bore. One of the prettiest bungalows in the Pasadena avenue neighborhood took the name of being haunted. Tenants said the spirit of Dr. Mills, spiritualist who perished in the Titanic disaster, kept them awake nights by pounding on the walls. After scoffing, the landlord slept in the house two nights. Then he ordered torn down and rebuilt.

In spite of the fact that love is blind, it isn't so blind that it can't see a dollar mark.

A Habit Dyspeptics Should Cultivate

Physicians and specialists in the treatment of stomach troubles state that they would be called upon to treat very few cases of chronic dyspepsia, ulcerated stomach and gastritis, if only those who are subject to even slight attacks of indigestion would make a practice of taking a teaspoonful of pure bisulphated magnesia in a little water after every meal, because this would neutralize the excessive acid in the stomach, which is invariably the underlying cause of these troubles. The remarkable antacid and food corrective properties of bisulphated magnesia have long been recognized by the medical profession, and the preparation is, of course, carried by all high-class druggists, but to avoid confusion with the acetates, citrates, sulphates, and similar unsuitable forms of magnesia or injurious mixtures of bismuth and magnesia, readers should always ask O. T. Erhart or any druggist very distinctly for bisulphated magnesia; this is the form in use at the great military hospitals in Europe and its wonderful efficacy has called forth the praise of many eminent physicians and nurses.

POUR U. S. DOLLARS - INTO CHINA PLAN OF
MINISTER REINSCH
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A struggle in China between American money and Japanese diplomacy was reported to have been suggested to President Wilson by Paul Reinsch,
United States minister to Peking.

Though not definitely announced, it was understood, the administration, without placing the government in the position of guarantor, would encourage American investments in China. Reinsch was said to have declared there was an excellent opportunity and to have pointed out that, with the rest of the world financially tied up, the Japanese, in competition will have hard work to secure the monopoly of China's resources they are believed to seek.

Reinsch doubted reports that President Yuan plans to found a monarchy. The president gave him his instructions concerning America's oriental policy. Reinsch sails from San Francisco for Peking August 25.

HELD OVER

Last night, as well as yesterday afternoon, people were turned away by the hundreds. Some waited twenty, thirty, and even forty minutes, hoping to get in to see the SIX-REEL COMEDY that turned the country Chaplin crazy. We telephoned our exchange this morning and secured the picture for another day, so

PRAIRIE TO PLAY HERE IN FIRST OF INTER-CITY MEETS

Local Net Shark's Challenge to Crawford County Men Accepted for Next Wednesday

SIX MEN TEAMS WILL PLAY

La Crosse Tennis Club Will Be Organized Here to Handle This and Other Tournaments

First of what is planned by local net sharks as a series of inter-city tennis tournaments will be played here next Wednesday, when a six-man team of racquet wavers from Prairie du Chien will appear for battle with six local cracks. A challenge issued by Perry Stetteland and Dr. C. C. Birkelo, who entered the Prairie du Chien tournament, August 9 to 12, was accepted this morning. Incidentally, in order to handle the meet, the La Crosse Tennis club, first independent organization of its kind in the city, will be formed among the net men here.

The Prairie du Chien meet will probably be staged at the La Crosse Country Club courts. There will be six singles matches and three doubles on the card, the contestants to be chosen by lot.

Among the Prairie du Chien players who will travel here for the meet it is expected that Burnham, Honzel, Kornicka and Smith, all of whom showed speed and class in the Prairie tournament, will be prominent. The La Crosse sextet will be chosen from the following seven men, it is expected: Prof. J. M. Bridgman, Dr. C. C. Birkelo, Paul T. Schultz, L. P. Benet, Chester Pieper, J. W. Hanks and Perry Stetteland. Mr. Stetteland is conducting arrangements for the tournament.

Riceville, Iowa, and Winona, Minn., tennis players have also been challenged by the tennis experts of La Crosse, and tournaments with teams from those places are probabilities to the near future. No response has yet been received from them.

MRS. G. A. HORN DIES IN THE WEST

A telegram informing her of the death of her sister, Mrs. G. A. Horn, at Los Angeles, was received this morning by Mrs. J. E. Geiwitz, 1114 Division street. The message failed to state the cause of death, saying only that Mrs. Horn had died after a short illness.

Mrs. Horn was a former La Crosse girl, this city being her birthplace. She spent her girlhood in the city. Her last visit in the city was in January, 1915, when she came to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. August Kaufmann.

She leaves a husband and three children, one sister, Mrs. Geiwitz, and one brother, Albert Kaufmann, Minneapolis.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

MAN OF MYSTERY FULFILLS FRANK'S DYING REQUEST

Calls at Home of Atlanta Newspaper Man, Turns Over Wedding Ring and Disappears

BELIEVED ONE OF THE LYNCHERS

Left Message Saying Victim's Last Wish Was the Ring Should Go to His Wife

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 19.—It was Leo M. Frank's last request that the wedding ring he wore be delivered to his wife.

It was in the hands today of O. B. Keeler, a member of the staff of an Atlanta newspaper, who is a resident, however, of Marietta.

A mysterious, unknown messenger, supposed to be a member of the mob

We regard the hanging of Leo M. Frank as an act of abiding citizens. Frank was not scratched, nor a hair of his head harmed. He was "hanged by the neck until dead," as the law had declared was his just due. We have no apology to make or regrets to express. The people demanded that the verdict of the court be carried out and saw to it that it was—Marietta Journal.

Marietta was the home of Mary Phagan for whose murder Frank was convicted.

PERCY D. BENTLEY LEAVES THE CITY

Well Known Young Architect Goes Into Partnership with C. E. Bell of Minneapolis

Percy D. Bentley, young architect who within a few years has established a widespread reputation as an artist in designing dwellings, business and public buildings, and who was among the first to introduce the new school style of residence architecture here, will leave La Crosse early in September. Mr. Bentley has allied himself with C. E. Bell, well known architect of Minneapolis. The firm will be known as Bell and Bentley, Inc.

The pure American style of architecture which Mr. Bentley introduced in La Crosse was at first ridiculed, but with the completion of the first few of his designs La Crosse took more favorably to the new style, and during the last few years it has been widely followed.

Among the larger dwellings which Mr. Bentley has designed in La Crosse are those of H. A. Salzer, Seventeenth and King streets; Emil Mueller, Fourteenth and King streets; C. J. Felber, on King street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets; Frank Schwaibe, Madison street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets; Frank Sisson, Fifteenth and Main streets, and D. G. MacMillan, Thirteenth and Cass streets.

The Odin J. Oyen building on Main street between Fifth and Sixth was designed by Mr. Bentley and is a pure example of the style which he introduced here. Another building which he designed was the factory of the National Gauge and Equipment company on the north side. Although Mr. Bentley's talent has run to dwellings, his factory and office buildings are handsome and practical structures.

The recently erected Richard Center city hall, built at a cost of $50,000, was designed by Mr. Bentley, and has met with the marked approval of leading architects all over the country. He has also drawn plans for schools at Bunds, Minn.; Crescen, Minn., and at Patch Grove, Wis. Mr. Bentley's plans for banks at Viroqua and Trempealeau were accepted. The Masonic Temple at Watertown, S. D., erected at a cost of $60,000, and the finest building of its kind in the state, was planned by the local architect. The Linker hotel and barber shop, to be built soon on the site of the old Lyric theater is by Mr. Bentley.

Mr. Bentley has drawn complete plans for the proposed physical education building of the La Crosse state normal school.

NORMAL TO EQUIP MODEL PLAYFIELD

Students who enter the model school course at the state normal in fall will have a private playfield. The money necessary to lay out and equip a playfield was appropriated by the state two years ago, and the apparatus will be set up in a few weeks. The site chosen for the stamping ground of the youngsters is located east and northeast of the present building, on the land between the school and the Green Bay railroad right of way. The vacant space between the main building and the tennis courts will be turned into a playfield for the kindergartners.

When Link Preston is overcharged he never complains and, never goes back.

VILLA PROMISES TO HELP U. S. IN PEACE PLAN

Replies Favorably to Lansing-Pan American Note and Says He Will Give All Assistance

WILL ACCEPT "GOOD OFFERS"

Carranza Acknowledges Receipt of Message but Fails to Answer It in Cable to His Agency

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 19.—Replying to the Lansing-Pan-American invitation to join a conference with other factions and establish peace in Mexico, Gen. Francisco Villa promised all assistance in his power. His note was made public here today.

After stating that he was still "strong enough to continue the fight" defending popular institutions until the "high ideals of the revolution were realized," Villa declared that in view of the "friendly attitude of the United States and our sister republics, we are ready to accept and cordially do accept" their good offices.

Villa closed by saying: "I want to state clearly that all military chiefs as well as the civilians attached to the conventionalist army are willing to establish in Mexico a provisional government that will guarantee the election to which the people will be convoked to elect with liberty its officers, as we have no further desire save that the nomination will be in favor of a determined man."

The Villa reply was directed to Secretary Robert Lansing and each of the Latin-American diplomats. It was sent direct to Enrique C. Llorente, Villa's Washington agent, with instructions to forward copies to each of the diplomats.

Carranza May Not Reply WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—General Carranza today curtly acknowledged receipt of the Pan-American Mexican peace note.

This acknowledgment he cabled to his agency here. It was not an answer. Agency officials broadly hinted it was the last that would be heard from him.

"The department of foreign relations," said the Carranza message, "received today the note sent by the secretary of state of the United States and the representatives of the South American republics through Mr. Silliman."

(Signed) "V. CARRANZA."

TREMPEALEAU MEN HERE TO ARRANGE JOINT MEETING

Cowie and Twesmie of Galesville Want County Boards to Get Together on Road Matter

An attempt to arrange a meeting between the entire La Crosse and Trempealeau county boards, at which the McGilvray road matter may be settled, is under way at the county court house this afternoon, where Supervisors Peter Nelson of Holmen is in session with Attorneys Robert S. Cowie of Whitehall and Albert Twesmie of Galesville. The Trempealeau county men are endeavoring to arrange with Nelson to introduce a resolution on the proposed joint session when the La Crosse county board meets next week.

STORM DEATHS WILL REACH 200

The crew took to two barges. The barges soon were beaten to pieces and Carlson believes no one but himself was saved. O. T. Larson, her master, crew happened to be ashore. Those thought lost are Edwell E. Wilkins, chief engineer; John Westland, leverman; John Ravich, steam engineer; Ingram Guerry, Julius Pautsch, A. E. Knudsen, L. B. Perry, Jens Jensen, William Anderson, Fritz Hendin, Gus Petersen, Charlie Johnson, Alec Hovind, Basilios Paleologos, Peter Hansen, H. Velandar, George Linden and eight seamen whose names are unknown.

The dredge boats Sam Houston, San Jacinto, Number One, and Galveston and the government tug San Luis may be lost. The dredge Miller is reported safe.

The government launch Bastrop went to the causeway this morning and reports fully two-thirds of that structure gone, meaning that rail communication with the mainland will not be established for weeks.

The most remarkable feature of the storm was the salvation of the crew of the four-masted schooner Dora Allison, en route from Progreso to Mobile with a cargo of lumber and jute. This ship washed out of her course. She was taken on the crest of a huge wave and carried Galveston is situated on a small island facing on both the Gulf of Mexico and Galveston bay.

In the disaster occasioned by a hurricane and tidal wave on September 8, 1900, 6,000 lives were lost and the city suffered a property loss of $17,058,275, many millions less than occasioned by the present catastrophe.

The loss of life and property in the present storm would have been much greater had not the sea been held out by the gigantic causeway erected in 1903. The wall, which at various times during the hurricane was reported to have given away but which it is now known withstood the terrific drive of wind and water, is 17,593 feet in length, 16 feet wide at the base and 17 feet high.

over the sea wall and deposited on the parade grounds at Fort Crockett. There she broke to pieces in less than ten minutes. Soldiers of the Fifth brigade and members of the Coast guard rushed to the rescue. The eight men of the crew were taken off alive, one with both legs broken. Those most seriously injured were loaded into a hospital ambulance and several squads of soldiers took turns about pushing this vehicle through the blinding storm and through mud and water that sometimes reached their shoulders from Crockett to St. Mary's hospital a distance of several miles.

The fishing smacks with crews aggregating more than a hundred are within the known radius of the hurricane and hope for them is practically abandoned. The steamship El Sud, of the Moran line, is ashore on the Galveston, South jetty in danger of breaking up. The Spanish steamship Upo Mendi is ashore in a dangerous predicament as is the Campana, an interned Austrian vessel. The transport McClellan is aground not in danger.

Camp Crockett, where five thousand men of the Fifth brigade were in cantonment, was washed clear of tents, and is a scene of desolation. The men are being transferred to the transports Kilpatrick and Buford.

City Under Martial Law

The city is under martial law and soldiers walk the streets armed to prevent depredations. Tuesday morning several jewelry stores, saloons and other business houses were looted before the patrol was organized. No looters have been killed, but several have been stopped at gun point.

Numerous pathetic scenes have been witnessed. Mrs. Wilhelmina Hearn in her home with her grown sons washed away from them as they were carrying her to a place of safety after her house had collapsed. Her body was not recovered until life was extinct. The body of a baby only a few months old has lain in a morgue for thirty-six hours with nobody to claim it or identify it.

W. P. Stewart, United States weather observer, is given credit for having saved more lives than any other agency except the sea wall. While the majority of residents were saying there was no danger, Stewart was sending motorcycles in every

BUCHDA HAS POOR DAY ON RANGE

La Crosse Marksman Drops to Thirty-second in State Rifle Competition at Camp Douglas

With a total of 655 out of a possible 800, Quartermaster Sergeant William R. Buchda dropped down in the rating for the state rifle team in the competition at Camp Douglas. His score Wednesday was 314, made under extremely hard weather conditions. Buchda ranks thirty-second in a field of thirty-six.

Russell and Mueller again carried off the honors in the competition and lowered the colors Wednesday at retreat with a total score of 714. For the two days' aggregate the following five lead: First, Rossmann; second, Gaartz-Gorman; third, Russell-Mueller; fourth, Brown-Grundeman; fifth, Gay-Jensen.

Conditions were harder Wednesday than Tuesday. The course consisted of one score of ten shots each at 200 and 300 yards, rapid fire, and one score of fifteen each at 300 and 1,000 yards, slow fire, and a double score of fifteen at 600 yards.

POPULAR PICTURE IS HELD OVER

"Tillie's Punctured Romance," that six reel gale of hilarity that put Charlie Chaplin on the map as film comedian, filled to overflowing the Casino theater yesterday afternoon and last night. Hundreds were turned away, and the management succeeded in holding the film for another day in order that all might have a chance to see Charlie Chaplin at his best, together with Marie Dressler, for years the idol of musical comedy, and Mabel Normand, the Keystone girl.

Ordinarily the program would change Friday, but as "Tillie's Punctured Romance" will show tomorrow, "The Moonstone" booked for the last two days in the week will be shown Saturday only.

REV. KRAEMER ARRIVES

There is no improvement in the condition of Father Gerard Sluyter, according to a telegram received by Father Lederer at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The message stated further that Rev. Father Msgr. Phillip Kraemer of Genoa had reached the bedside of Father Sluyter.

direction down the island for a distance of thirty miles warning them they would die if they did not come to Galveston. In consequence practically every farmer, fisherman and camper fled to the city. There were probably 200 persons left on the island below Galveston. The few reports from that district are indefinite and indicate that the loss of life is very large.

The beach front is a sickening sight from the standpoint of property loss. The three large bathhouses have disappeared. Ball park and motorhome are piles of wreckage and a pile of debris from six to ten feet high and forty feet wide extends the length of the sea wall. Practically every home facing the water is off its foundation. Some are covered with sand to their roofs. The water front is a mass of marine wreckage, but the principal loss there is from destruction from sheds and warehouses.

CASE AGAINST TOMAH MEN HELD OVER FOR A WEEK

Denouement of Kirchner "Poison Letter" Case Expected Today Fails to Materialize in Court

Denouement of the Kirchner "poison letter" case, expected today when Harold McCauley and Arnold Schueller, Tomah youths who were caught in District Attorney Otto Schlach's trap set for the letters' authors, were scheduled for arraignment in county court, failed when it was announced that the case had been continued, by consent, until August 27. The prosecutor refused to make public the reason for the postponement.

Mrs. Kirchner, who was fined $25 in county court yesterday on a statutory charge, was released from jail today upon payment of her fine.

McCauley and Schueller are charged with sending Mrs. Kirchner threatening and obscene letters. The last one commanded her to meet the writer at the Tomah station. Mrs. Kirchner, in company with Detective William Fitzsimmons and City Sealer E. H. Derr did as the letter directed. The detectives arrest McCauley and Schueller.

Weather

Temperature yesterday: High, 74; low, 50; precipitation, 0. For La Crosse and vicinity: Rain tonight and Friday. Continued cool. For Wisconsin: Increasing cloudiness followed by rain Friday and south portion tonight. Not much change in temperature.

For Minnesota: Generally fair north and central portions, probably rain extreme south portion tonight; Friday rain and cooler south and east portions.

For Iowa: Rain tonight and Friday. Cooler north portion Friday.

Weather Conditions

The west gulf storm is central this morning in extreme northeastern Texas but has diminished in energy. The high pressure continues central in the upper lake region.

Rain has occurred in connection with the southern storm and also in the south Atlantic state and it is raining this morning from Oklahoma and eastern Kansas to Tennessee and the lower Ohio valley. The following 24 hours rain-falls (in inches) are reported:—Oklahoma, 1.14; Fort Smith, Ark., 3.32; Memphis, 2.72; Nashville, 1.94; Shreveport, 3.36; Charleston, S. C., 1.56.

The temperature changes have been small.

The southern storm will move slowly into the Mississippi valley and probably far enough north to cause rain in this section tonight and Friday. The temperature will continue moderately cool.

CEMENT WALKS BIG IMPROVEMENTS TO RUSHFORD STREETS

State Library Commission Representative Speaks in Minnesota Town in Interest of Library

RUSHFORD, Minn., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—Another eyesore has disappeared from the city since the stretch of old wooden walk, at the extreme north end of the North Rushford bridge, has been replaced by one of cement. The new stretch of cement walk that has been recently put in at the west end of the Brooklyn bridge, is also a great improvement, both in appearance and in the comfort of pedestrians.

Church Societies Meet
The Ladies Missionary and Aid societies of the Presbyterian church held their regular monthly meeting last Saturday, at the church parlors. Miss Verna McLeod led the devotionals, placing before those present the subjects of both Home and Foreign topics in a very interesting and enjoyable manner. Mesdames John McLeod, Wm. H. McLeod and Elizabeth Ferguson were hostesses for the day, serving a delicious luncheon in the basement, and from which lunch and the home-made candy on sale, the proceeds were something over $15.00.

Miss Baldwin Speaks
Miss Clara Baldwin, of St. Paul, Secretary of the State Library Commission, made a visit here Saturday, in the interest of our own city library. It was planned to have all interested in the work meet Miss Baldwin at the library building at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, but the attendance at this meeting was very disappointing, few attending. Miss Baldwin, however, nothing daunted, gave the few present a splendid talk along lines of special interest to all who have the matter at heart. Miss Baldwin made all present feel that we had in our library a great force for good and that we were all individually responsible for its success or failure.

Flower Meeting Held
There will be held next Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock, the annual Flower Mission meeting of the Rushford W. C. T. U. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. Halverson, in Brooklyn and it is hoped that all will be present who in any way are interested in bringing cheer and comfort to those less wealthy in these things than themselves. For the Flower Mission work is that part of the possible for invalids and "shut-ins" to glimpse a bit of the outside world, through the eyes of those who come to visit them, with blossoms and encouraging words.

Fish Car Stops
The fish car, Glenwood, was sidetracked here last Thursday afternoon and about seventy cans of trout-fry taken off for distribution in Hemmingway creek and other trout-haunts.

Give Library Supper
The ladies of the local W. C. T. U. have decided that they will give a "Library Supper" some time in Sept., the proceeds of which will be turned over entire for the benefit of our public library.

"Moppy" On Visit
Melvin Anderson, otherwise "Moppy," is in La Crosse visiting his parents and from there will go to Chicago for a short time.

DENVERITES GIVEN TREAT WHEN THAW AND TAFT DROP IN

DENVER, Aug. 19.—The two Ts—Taft and Thaw—drifted into our midst, dropped a few words for the edification of the public, and then one Taft, smiling good naturedly, and thinner—went his way to Salt Lake City. The other is vacationing here for a day or two.

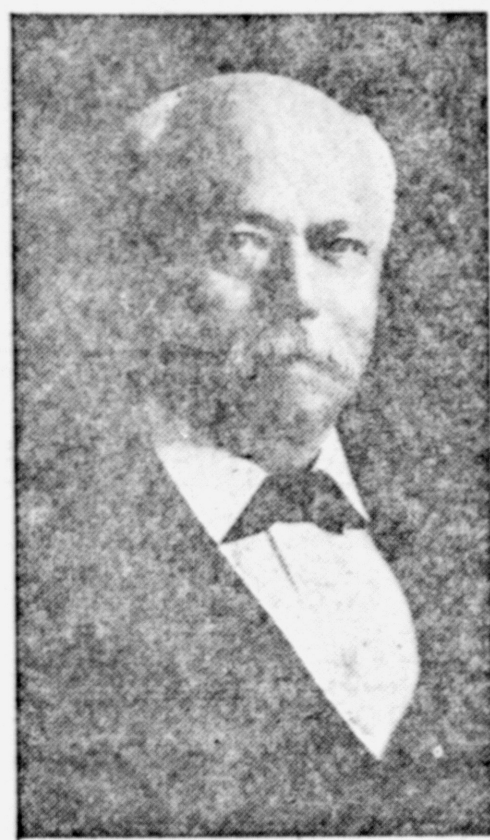

Taft feared Mexican intervention rear, though, he opined it would not be "off" we had approached the Mexican situation with proper forethought. He allowed, too, that the war had helped to overcome difficulties which the nation would have faced otherwise in the tariff. Taft lured himself across continent in making friends with a little girl whose parents were quite flustered when they learned he was the ex-president.

As for Thaw—well, he was busy dining while a curious crowd stood on the side lines, craving for a glimpse of him and anxiously awaiting bulletins from some fortunate diners who'd seen him.

Thaw wouldn't talk about women in general or Evelyn in particular. Though he did confess frankly, when asked concerning rumors of a divorce suit that the New York papers generally quoted him correctly and used him fairly.

No far as reports showed, Thaw is still high and dry on the well known water wagon.

THEY TOLD HOW THE CITY WON ITS FIGHT FOR ADEQUATE AND HEALTHFUL SUPPLY OF WATER AT CELEBRATION YESTERDAY

Former Alderman A. A. Hirshheimer, Who Fought With Copeland for the Well Supply Plan

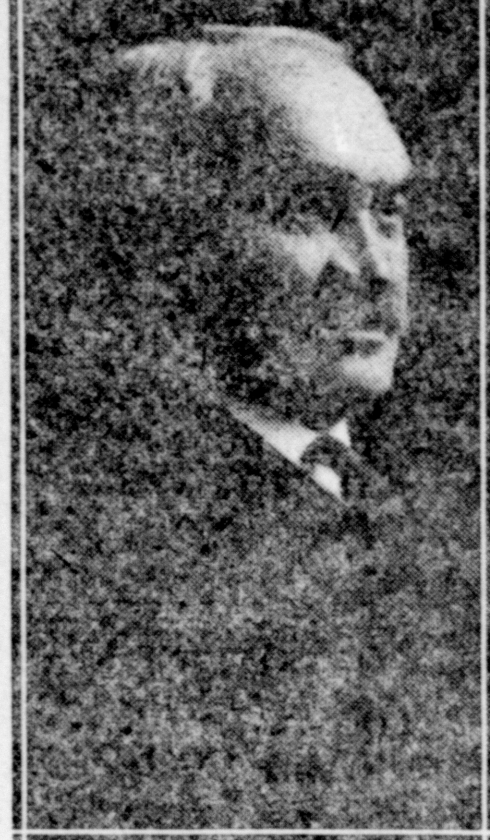

Former Mayor Frederick A. Copeland, "Father of the Well System"

Former Mayor John Dengler, in Whose First Administration the Water Problem First Assumed Big Proportions

Former Mayor Ori J. Sorensen, in Whose Administration the Water Plant Was Completed.

Former Alderman E. G. Boynton, One of the Well's System's "Old Guard"

HIS HONOR

Mayor A. A. Bentley Who Made Closing Speech of Dedication Yesterday.

Harmony, instrumental and fraternal, reigned at the ceremonies in Myrick park yesterday at which the water-fight hatchet, which waved wildly between neighbors in La Crosse for a score of years, was interred. The great well vs. river controversy was the subject of most of the speakers, but all treated it in the past tense. The closing words of Mayor A. A. Bentley's brief talk caught the spirit of the occasion: "We have had a big fight, but it sprang from the ambition of the opposing sides each to do the best for the city. Opposition to our present system stirred its friends to greater efforts and probably had much to do with the successful outcome. We take pride in the possession of something which no other city of our size can boast. We have erected a monument, not stone and cement, but of health and life to future generations. The fight is over. Let me ask you to say nothing but kindly words of those who had part in it."

HARMONY REIGNS AT DEDICATION CELEBRATION OF THE CITY WATER PLANT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

200 Attend
About 200 people attended the celebration, many of them making the affair occasion for family picnics in the park. The new pumping station was thronged all afternoon with sight-seers who examined the machinery with interest.

Various stages in the city's progress toward the completed system were explained in detail by former mayors and aldermen after Paul W. Mahoney, secretary of the special water committee, had given a brief synopsis of La Crosse water history. Former Mayor Dengler, in whose first administration the artesian well supply plan was broached, told how that idea had been exploded by a pumping test which showed the supply insufficient. He also told of the fight for the bond issue which was the phase of the water problem he faced in his second term.

"There was a real struggle," he said, "to stand firm for the state recommendations. I was appealed to by committees, delegations, letters—even notes from women attacked the underground system."

Copeland Tells of His Efforts
Former Mayor F. A. Copeland, "father of the well system," described his early efforts for the adoption of the plan. Incidentally, he said, the present discharge pipe from the new plant follows the trench he dug in 1891 when he demonstrated his plan by sinking the Copeland well which is still flowing.

"What sealed my faith in the well system," said Colonel Copeland, "was an examination of the LaCrosse river valley. It is almost 400 square miles, enclosed by stone bluffs. Our annual rainfall is about 32 feet. It is impossible to realize the number of gallons of water which falls each year in the natural reservoir. I prophesied in 1893 that I would live to see the day when La Crosse had a supply of clear, pure water from the sands of the valley. I have always contended that the river is but an open sewer."

How the signers of the petition to the railroad commission which resulted in the order for the well-system plant were so timid of public disapproval, so heated had become the water controversy, that they begged to have their names kept secret, was told by Former Mayor Ori J. Sorensen, in whose administration plans for the present system were formulated.

How Sorensen Lost Hair
"We had troubles galore. That's where I lost most of my hair," said Mr. Sorensen, caressing his bald spot. "When I took office I was advised not to open the water question, that it was only butting into a stone wall. And very like a stone wall we found it until John Roemer, of the railroad commission, showed us the way out when we were attending a municipal convention in Milwaukee."

Incidentally, Mr. Sorensen advised the formation of a commission similar to the health and park boards, for the control of the water system. "We have two departments in our city government that show a hundred per cent on the dollar for the money they receive," was the way the former executive referred to the health and park boards. He declared the water plant was conducted at a loss of $1,000 a month because consumers did not pay more than a quarter of what the service was worth, in many cases.

Makes Money, Says Hirshheimer
Mr. Sorensen's statement that plant loses money was vigorously combated by Former Alderman A. A. Hirshheimer, who cited statistics to prove that the city makes a profit on the water plant. Taking into consideration the free service in the shape of drinking fountains for man and beast, Mr. Hirshheimer declared that the city received from the water plant about twice its operating cost. Incidentally, he declared that the city's investment in water works, customarily stated at $1,025,268, in reality should be placed at approximately $800,000. Nothing has been charged off for depreciation or abandoned equipment, he said. He asserted the city had been making money on the water plant in a sum sufficient to pay 4 per cent on an investment of half a million dollars. He bulwarked his statement by a mass of figures backing his contention that the water works is an asset and not a liability to the tax payers. "The water works," he declared, "owes nothing to the tax payers. It has been self-supporting from the start."

Burdick Praises City
Charles B. Burdick, of the firm of engineers which built the plant, took occasion when called upon to praise the city spirit and thank the city officials who worked with him during the erection of the new plant. "It is not often," he said, "that we engineers are able to attend an affair like this—the dedication of one of our works. To me it is like the christening of a child. This water system, to my mind, is evidence of the same civic spirit which has made La Crosse the garden city of Wisconsin."

That if need be the whole of a populous state could draw ample supply of water from the sand and gravel beds which underlie the river valley was a statement made by Mr. Burdick. "One must go to an arid country to appreciate the worth of water," he said. "In dry countries water is worth whatever it costs. Wisconsin is lucky. Her choosing a source of supply is a choice between an embarrassment of riches."

He Bathes in Comfort
E. G. Boynton, former alderman, and one of the original advocates of the well system, dwelt upon the virtues of the new supply.

THE HISTORIAN

Paul W. Mahoney, alderman, who Has Been Secretary of the Special Water Committee Since Its Formation

"It is a great relief," said he, "to be able to take a bath without being forced to pump water afterwards to wash the dirt out of one's eyes and ears."

William H. Tarbox, former alderman of the special water committee, also spoke briefly, as did Superintendent of Schools L. P. Benezet. Mr. Benezet, taking the water system as a starting point, developed an argument for "La Crosse, a good town in which to raise a family." He recounted, as factors in his argument, the scenic beauty of La Crosse, its physical and moral cleanliness, its parks and playgrounds, its excellent schools, library and great healthfulness.

The celebration ended last night with a Dutch lunch for city officials, present and former members of the city government at the Northwestern hotel.

POLITICAL PRISONERS EXECUTED IN MEXICO

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 19.—Several political conventionalist prisoners, many of them prominent, have been executed in Chihuahua, unconfirmed reports said this afternoon.

Among them were Guillermo Terrazas, grandson of General Luis Terrazas; Felipe Gutierrez, Orozco governor of Chihuahua; General Del Pozo and others, who had been confined in jail for more than a year.

Early history of most of our "self-made men" usually reveals the guiding hand of a good friend.

J. H. GILFILLAN'S DEATH MARKS END OF USEFUL LIFE

Prominent West Salem Merchant a Resident of Wisconsin Came to State When 4 Months Old

WEST SALEM, Wis., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—H. Gilfillan, who died at his home here Tuesday, has been a resident of Wisconsin since the age of four months. He was brought to Beaver Dam by his parents in the height of the westward movement.

Mr. Gilfillan was born in Waterville, Vt., Jan. 13, 1846, his parents migrating a short time after his birth in the great westward movement that was going on at that time. The family left their eastern home on May 18, and reached Beaver Dam, this state, June 12 of the year of his birth.

He removed from Beaver Dam to La Crosse county, settling in Adams Valley, township of Burns, in July, 1854, where he remained until he moved into the village of West Salem in April, 1855, making his home in West Salem from that time until the end.

For a short time, during his young manhood, he engaged in farming and threshing, but upon coming to town to live he entered the hardware business with George Robinson with whom he remained in partnership for six years.

After a brief period in which he conducted his business alone, he sold an interest to his nephew, F. I. Bolles, and for a number of years the firm of Gilfillan and Bolles was one of the best known business houses in the county.

After twenty-two years in the hardware business, Mr. Gilfillan disposed of his interests and went into the plumbing and well-drilling business in partnership with his son, Roy H. Gilfillan, remaining until the end came on August 17.

J. H. Gilfillan and Miss Carrie Redding were united in marriage on December 21, 1873, and he is survived by his wife, his son, Roy H. Gilfillan, his daughter, Mrs. Ella Gilfillan Matthews, of Madison, Wis., and his little granddaughter, all of whom were with him during his last days.

Mr. Gilfillan was a devoted member of the Masonic order and will be buried with Masonic honors on Friday afternoon, August 20.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the bowels, and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

ROBINS CHECKED IN FLAG DASH

"Hippo" Vaughn of Cubs Applies Whitewash to Brooklynites to Tune of 9 to 0

BROOKLYN, Aug. 19.—"Hippo" Vaughn had the riotous Robins eating out of his hand at critical stages in Wednesday's game and the best the tribe of Dodgers could do was to annex a goose egg while the Cubs piled up the generous total of nine runs. Incidentally, but somewhat to the main point, the victory of the Cubs put them into remote running for the flag and kept Brooklyn within a respectable distance from the Phillies who were fortunately losing to the Pesky Pirates at the same time.

Heinie Zim demonstrated that he could do something besides bait umpires, when he poled out a neat homer and a bingle during the hostilities. WHEN sun and work are boiling the juice out of a fellow's hide, a satisfying chew beats a smoke.

Some reasons why you hear so much about the Real Tobacco Chew: the good tobacco taste is there, it lasts, less grinding, less spitting. One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR W-B CUT CHEWING TOBACCO. IT IS THE NEW "REAL TOBACCO CHEW"—CUT LONG SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to get tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

((Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.))

MAGEE RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF BROOKLYN FEDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Lee Magee has resigned the managership of the Brooklyn Federals, according to a well defined rumor in baseball circles here. The Wards could not be reached. It has been an open secret for some time that the Wards were not fully satisfied with the way the team was being run. Magee has had numerous altercations with his men, especially with Bennie Kauff. It was said that Magee will continue with the club as a player, as his contract still has three years to run. Baseball rumors were connecting the resignations of Magee and John Gangel of the Rochester International league club, which came close together, and one rumor said Gangel was to take the helm of the Brooklyn independents. Gangel is a veteran, having at one time managed the Cincinnati Reds and the Grand Rapids club in the Central league.

WON'T DISCUSS RESIGNATION PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 19.—Lee Magee was "too busy" to discuss the report that he had tendered his resignation as manager of the Brooklyn Federal league ball team when seen here.

Jackal Broth as a Delicacy.
Camel flesh does not strike the western palate as a delectable dish, but it certainly seems preferable to jackal. Yet there are parts of Morocco, we are told by a French visitor, where jackal broth is highly esteemed as a table delicacy. A friendly sheldisented vehemently when it was intimated that as jackals feed on carrion the broth must have a horrible flavor. "It is only a question of knowing how to prepare it," he said. "You put the jackal, skin and all, for two hours into a vessel of boiling water, then transfer it to another vessel. This process is repeated three times. After ten hours' boiling in five different waters the carrion flavor disappears and the broth is delicious."

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

YESTERDAY'S HOMERS

Wagner, Pirates, off Mayer, Phillies.
Wingo, Reds, off Perritt, Giants.
Burns, Giants, off Dale, Reds.
Phelan, Cubs, off Appleton Dodgers.

Things are coming to a pretty pass in belligerent Ban Johnson's loop when Lee Fohl's Fohlies can lick Sir Walter Johnson.

Further proof of it is seen in the fact that J. Honus Wagner, that precocious youngster, pickled the old pill for a single, a double and a homer, besides figuring in a double play and handling eight chances.

Several worms turned yesterday—the White Sox licked the pompous Red Sox and the Reds everlastingly bombarded the Giants.

Now if the Athletics could only win, all the worms would have turned over and that expression would be dead.

Both the leaders were dumped, further complicating the two old go as you please races.

The Pirates showed a temporary (maybe) return to form by trimming the Phils, and incidentally shortening the gap between the Dodgers and the Quakertown crew.

The expectation of a reward often keeps the scent keen and sustains interest.

Contradicting Shakespeare.

Shakespeare's contention that "there was never yet a philosopher who could endure the toothache patiently" was disproved by Canon Liddon. After an experience that would have closed the mouths of most of us, Liddon found it possible to write to a friend: "I have been quite laid up with trouble with my few remaining teeth, of which I had five taken out the day before yesterday. As only four remain, this particular experience cannot be repeated in this present life." This is a classic instance of the triumph of philosophy over pain.

LOCAL WOMEN ARE OUT OF RUNNING

Mrs. Felber Last of the La Crosse Golfers to Go Down in the Tourney at Blue Mound, Milwaukee

La Crosse women golfers who entered in the state championship tournament at the Blue Mound Country club are out of the running today, with the defeat yesterday of Mrs. C. J. Felber by Miss Miller of Oconomowoc, 3 up and 2 to play.

In the qualifying round on Tuesday Mrs. Felber turned in a card of 114. Mrs. J. D. Young made 122; Mrs. J. A. Ablett 127; Mrs. Felber 132, and Miss Young 133.

Miss Young yesterday lost in the play for the directors' cup, Mrs. Dunbar of Blue Mound taking her over the bumps three and two.

The prospects were for some fine golf today, for Mrs. Whitcomb meets Miss Dorothy Miller in the first division, while Mrs. Landauer meets Mrs. Bourneque in the second division. According to the "dope," Mrs. Niedecken and Miss Greene, both former champions, have an easier prospect than Mrs. Whitcomb and Mrs. Landauer, the other two title holders, but in this game of golf there is always likely to be an upset, so the prospects are for fast play in today's match round.

DETROIT MOTOR BOAT WINS HIGHEST CUP

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The east today had lost a little more of her sport prestige. The gold challenge cup, highest award in motorboat racing, was being taken to Detroit after a long residence on the Atlantic coast. Miss Detroit, the speedy craft of a number of Detroit sportsmen, finished first in all three days racing at Manhasset bay. She averaged fifty-seven miles an hour yesterday.

CROWDS FLOCK TO GOLDEN GATE FOR VACATIONS
750,000 Visitors Estimated in Coast Towns; Attendance Record of Exposition Reaches 10,000,000
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 19.—America's on a vacation. More than three-quarters of a million made in United States of America folks are now whiling away pleasant hours on the Golden coast, at California's expositions and in the big cities.
Hotelmen, railroad officials, and commercial club heads told the United Press today that fully a quarter of a million visitors are now here and in the bay cities. Los Angeles estimates 255,000 visitors there, while San Diego figures that 4,550 to 6,000 visitors reach there daily.
Portland, Oregon, has 2,500 guests daily.
"The transient tourists" were not included in the San Francisco and Los Angeles estimates, and these are placed at around 100,000.
Over ten million people have thus far passed through the gates of the Panama exposition. Of these, more than three and a half million, according to conservative estimates were from outside the state.
Railroads and large and small hotels report themselves jammed.
America, they say, is spending her money at home this summer.

FOUR NEUTRAL SHIPS SUNK IN 24 HOURS

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Four steamers, three of them neutral vessels, have been sunk by German submarines in the last twenty-four hours. The crews of all were saved. Dispatches this afternoon added the 2,702 ton British steamer Bonny and the Spanish steamer Isidore to the list of U-boat victims.

Mythical Colorado Town.
A certain well-known theatrical manager had a company in the West that had an open week, and as the manager didn't wish to lay the company off for the entire week he wired the manager of a Denver theater to secure him some dates in neighboring towns. The Denver manager wired back a list of open dates, among which were these: Cripple Creek, March 2, lay off third; Fort Collins, fourth. The telegraph operator mixed the two words, "lay off" and spelled it "Layhoff." The New York manager, as soon as he received the wire took out a map of Colorado and began to figure on the railroad movements. He could not find the town "Layhoff." He consulted time tables, larger maps, and even called upon his friends to see if they knew of the town. They all professed ignorance, so at last he wired back, "How will I find 'Layhoff'?" The Denver manager received the telegram and, as by some providence, the two words were separated and spelled correctly, he wired back: "I think you will find many of them expensive."

MOTHER JAILED FOR BEATING BOY WITH BLACKSNAKE WHIP

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Odella Oberst, 34 years old, pretty and comely, will spend the next fifteen days in jail. She was arrested upon complaint of the humane officers for beating her nine year old son with a blacksnake fashioned out of a heavy razor strap. Neighbors, hearing the boy scream, broke into the house and found the mother beating him with the whip strap, the boy lying naked on the floor, his body covered with bleeding welts.

When neighbors wrested the strap away she grabbed a rope and when this was taken away, she began to beat the boy with a piece of stove wood.

"O, Mr. Craig," said the society lady to the art critic, "I want to thank you for the article you wrote about Mr. Dobb's portrait of me. It was kind of you to praise it."

"You are mistaken, Madame," replied the critic. "I don't praise the portrait. I merely said it was beautiful."
